Cannon stainless steel mounting bases are now available for Cannon's Uni-Troll® and Magnum downrigger lines.

The mounts are cast from 316 stainless steel to resist rusting, pitting and corroding, which is especially important when dealing with the harsh, year-round Florida sun and saltwater environment. There are two mounting bases that are compatible with select Cannon downrigger models. The low profile swivel base and two styles of gimbal mounts are compatible with all Cannon downrigger models. ## HI-SEAS Fluorocarbon Line provides performance characteristics serious bass fishermen will love. It's moderately supple, provides excellent knot strength, superior abrasion resistance and is one of the best casting lines ever made. During this period of spawning bass, Florida anglers need a line that will not spook fish, yet still imitate a natural bait to induce a strike. The most important features are its remarkable sensitivity and sink rate. It is the ultimate line for fishing worms, jigs, finesse baits, Shaky Heads and for drop shot techniques because it enhances the natural appearance of a falling bait. It is so sensitive you'll feel the lightest pick ups, and it is virtually invisible, regardless of how clear the water might be. www.hisceas.net

Triple Fish 100% Fluorocarbon is now softer and has no memory! Advanced refractive technology allows features in the new Fluorocarbon line that leaves standard monofilaments in the Dark Ages! Extruded with twice the density of standard monofilament, 20 percent less stretch and a higher resistance to abrasion (no more losing grouper to a Florida reef or a snook to a mangrove branch encrusted in barnacles), which equates to more solid hook sets and a line that will hold up to the toughest fishing conditions. Our double density virtually eliminates water absorption, a problem that vastly reduces the tensile strength of standard monofilaments. www.triplefish.net
